Highlights of the 2015 Census of Population: Single Males of the Cordillera Administrative Region

Date of Release: April 24, 2020
Reference No.: SR 2020-15

CAR has more than half a million single individuals

- The household population of persons belonging to the age group 10 years old in the region reached 1,354,180 persons as recorded in the 2015 Census of Population.
- Persons with single civil status comprised 46 percent of the region's household population, that is 625,814 single persons.

Single males outnumber the single females

- There were 343,843 single males, while 281,971 were single females. The number of single males were higher by 22 percent than that of the single females.
- The single males comprised 25% of the household population, which means that there was at least one single male in every four household members in the region.
- Of the total 625,814 singles (for both sexes) in the region, more than half or 55 percent were males.

As age increases, the number of single males decreases

- Half of the total 689,421 population of males in the region belonging to the age group 10 years old and over were single males.
- There were 177,839 single males with ages below 20 years, making up 99 percent of the male household population.
- The age group 20 to 24 years had 70,510 single males, comprising 80 percent of the male household population.
- Within the age group 25 to 29 years, there were 40,461 single males registered, that is 52 percent of the age group of household population.
- The trend of single males decreasing in number as the person gets older was observed in the 2015 census results.
